Description

Located on top of a hill on North Main Street's west side, just south of the Lutheran Church, this house is a two story, four bay German sided log structure. It is a side gabled building set directly at the edge of the sidewalk, typical of central and western Maryland and south-central Pennsylvania. Windows have two over two pane double hung sash and there is a two bay entrance porch, supported by turned posts, protecting the two central bays, one of which is the entrance.

This conservative vernacular house is typical of the region. Log construction with the four bay, off-center front door plan can be found through the 18th and 19th centuries. The facade plan has Germanic origins. The 1877 Atlas' map shows this to have been the property of W. Kitzmiller who also had a wagon and blacksmith shop.
